Finnish dogsledging adventure

January can feel a little glum so why not kick off 2012 with a magical husky sledging tour in Finland. You will first learn how to harness and feed your team of up to six huskies before heading off into the frozen, pine forest-filled Pallas-Yllas National Park. You will cross the Arctic Circle, stand a good chance of seeing the northern lights and sleep in wilderness cabins along the way.

THE DETAILS This seven-day expedition departs on 15 January 2012 and costs £1,999, including flights with Scandinavian Airlines (0845 863 9601; exodus.co.uk).
